

SOPHIE LOWE

Born in Sheffield, England, Sophie and her family came to live in Australia in 2000.

After finishing school in 2008 Sophie's star has been on a meteoric rise since being cast in a leading role in her feature film debut Beautiful Kate. Early reviews for the film suggest that this stunning debut performance will launch her career and introduce the world to her talents as an actor. The film premiered at the Sydney International Film Festival in June 2009 and has received critical acclaim both locally and internationally.

Since completing her role in Beautiful Kate Sophie has been working on back to back projects over the past twelve months. These include the feature film Blessed directed by Anna Kokkinos and featuring a stellar cast including Miranda Otto, Deborah Lee Furness and Frances O'Connor. She has also completed filming on The Clinic directed by James Rabbitts. Both films will have a theatrical release scheduled in 2009.

Road Train is Sophie's fourth film.